Minister pledges review of compensation

JEREMY NOLA

jeremy.nola@metronews.ca

Alberta's two major universities fork out more in compensation to their executives than larger schools that consistently outrank them and the advanced education minister says it's time to review their pay.

According to 2012 financial statements, five executives from the University of Alberta and two from the University of Calgary earned more than the presidents of McGill University, the University of British Columbia and the University of Toronto, respectively.

Those three schools have consistently been ranked among Canada's best, something reinforced by the release of the 2013 QS World University Rankings last month.

Overall base pay for presidents and vice-presidents at the U of A hit $3.1 million while the U of C handed out $2.44 million. Those lump sums also exceeded the amounts at UBC ($1.6 million) and the U of T ($2.35 million), despite the fact those schools also have significantly larger student populations.

U of A President Indira Samarasekera, whose $529,000 annual salary is the highest among all Canadian university presidents, was grilled about her earnings by attendees at a state of the university address last month. A university spokesperson said board of governor chair Doug Goss was best to speak to her compensation but he was travelling Thursday and had not responded to an interview request at press time.

But Alberta Advanced Education Minister Thomas Lukaszuk said he took issue with Samarasekera's claims at the address that her pay was comparable with what she could earn in the private sector.

"I firmly believe that public-sector employees are not in the same ballpark as executives of publicly traded or privately owned companies," he said. "If the CEO of Suncor is making millions with stock options, that doesn't mean individuals of equal calibre in the public sector should be getting paid the same amount."

Questions about executive pay come as both the U of A and U of C grapple with the fallout of a 7.3 per cent cut to provincial grants announced in March.

U of C President Elizabeth Cannon earned $454,000 in base pay in 2012, according to statements released this week, but the school was quick to note pay for all executives was frozen through to June 30 next year after the budget came down.

"The human resources and governance committee of the board regularly reviews executive compensation practices to ensure competitiveness with national post-secondary peers and Alberta public and private sector organizations," the U of C said in a statement. "This includes salary surveys and peer benchmarking."

Ward 5. City cab industry lights up forum

During the Ward 5 CivicCamp Forum on Thursday night, candidate Pritpal Dhaliwal made certain he got a chance to speak about what matters to him.

Held at Sunridge Mall, the forum featured incumbent Ray Jones and Dhaliwal as they exchanged ideas on the issues facing the ward.

The heated topic of the evening was the same issue that got Dhaliwal into the race: the taxi industry.

"I believe that the system was designed to fail or designed to be abused," he said. "My reason for running is to work on the taxi industry."

Before being cut off by the moderator — the rules of the forum prohibit direct references to your opponents — Dhaliwal claimed that Jones was "a big part" of the problem. Jones was quick to rebut, saying that the TLAC which governs Calgary's taxi industry is completely independent.

"We wanted to take it out of the politicians' hands and we did," Jones said.

When asked if they would release their donor lists, Dhaliwal said that transparency was another large part of why he got into the race.

Jones said that he would if he could, but that "my financial guy is on a cruise for the next two weeks."

In response to several questions, candidate Dhaliwal said that he was not as informed on the subject as his opponent, and that he would defer to his expertise.

The candidates opposed each other on most issues.

When the alderman is away, the candidates will play.

With the incumbent, Diane Colley-Urquhart, missing from Thursday night's forum, candidates Adam Frisch and Scott Sorokoski discussed development in the ward.

The Shawnee Park development planned for the area was a hot topic, without the candidate who participated in its debate.

The development would see the 130 acres of the former golf course turned into 1,700 homes and retail shopping.

Frisch and Sorokoski both acknowledged the issue, offering their own opinions on how best to deal with it.

Sorokoski, who sits on the board of directors for Trico Homes, called for acceptance of Calgary's growth.

"We can't just stop growing outward," he said.

"There's lots of sprawl in Ward 13 and some of that has caused the concerns we have nowadays with the big-box stores, traffic, transit. It needs to be solved and part of the bigger solution."

Frisch was more direct, placing the blame on city council, with a "you break it, you fix it" policy.

"If there is indeed a problem with urban sprawl, it's one of city council's own making. Builders don't just show up and start digging; it has to go through an approval system. So for everybody on city council to all of a sudden start saying we have a problem, well where were they when they created it? Now we have to fix it," said Frisch.

Background

- 70 per cent of homes in Ward 13 are single-detached dwellings.
- The Shawnee Slopes project was approved by city council in February of 2013.

Cardel Homes is set to break ground on the Shawnee Park development in 2014 under conditions previously set by city council upon purchasing the property from Geo-Energy Enterprises.

Police. 'Hate, bias or prejudice' behind attack on female paramedic

Police say a female paramedic was attacked due to her gender in one of two separate incidents for which they announced charges Thursday.

Authorities reported an off-duty paramedic was chased from a coffee shop to her car in the 9600 block of Macleod Trail S.W., which is near Southland Drive S.W.

The female victim phoned 911 while the man allegedly continued yelling and banging on her car window. The reported attack happened on Aug. 19, but investigators are now classifying it as a hate crime.

"The assault on the female paramedic was motivated by hate, bias or prejudice towards females," said Cst. Eric Levesque, hate crimes co-ordinator with the police diversity resources team.

Levesque would not provide specifics to avoid interfering with ongoing court proceedings.

Levesque estimated 55 to 60 such crimes have occurred in Calgary over the past five

Looking for tips

Investigators asked Thursday for tips in two other random attacks:

- Two women were assaulted "without provocation" on Aug. 2 about 1:30 a.m. at the Anderson Station LRT.
- A similar assault was reported to police on Aug. 30 about 10 p.m., at the northwest Dalhousie Station.

years. Few of those cases, he continued, are assaults and even fewer are motivated by a victim's gender.

Kyle Mackenzie, 25, of Calgary has been charged with criminal harassment in relation to the paramedic assault. MacKenzie was also charged with criminal harassment and assault in relation to the incident involving the LRT employee.

Bus fees hot topic

Public school trustee race. Candidates speak out on school bus charges, which used to be capped at $400

jeremy.nola@metronews.ca

Candidates vying to sit on Calgary's public school trustee board are pledging moves to reverse course on busing fees for some families — or scrap them altogether.

Rick Lundy, a patient advocate who's gunning for the seat in wards 2 and 3, said, if elected, he will bring forward a motion to return the family maximum spend-

Quoted

"We can't be gouging families in these tough economic times."

Rick Lundy, a patient advocate who's gunning for the seat in wards 2 and 3, on bus fees ing limit, scrapped by the Calgary Board of Education in 2011.

Previously, households were charged no more than $400 annually regardless of how many youngsters they had riding the yellow school bus. After the cap was removed, some families watched as their annual charge more than tripled.

Elsewhere, wards 5 and 10 challenger Larry Leach said that he's encountered families living within their community school's design-nated walk zone that still are forced to bus their kids elsewhere due to overcrowding. His plan is to bring a motion that would exempt those families from busing fees altogether.

"First of all, if you buy a house across the street from a school, you should have a reasonable expectation that your child is going to go to that school," Leach said. "If for some reason it gets full, I don't think we should be burdening parents with busing fees.... I think it's awful."

Cost

Students riding the yellow school bus are charged $295 annually, with the exception of kindergartners, who pay $215.

But Joy Bowen-Eyre, who's seeking re-election in wards 1 and 2, still believes the key to easing the busing burden on families lies with the provincial government, which determines the transportation grant funding passed down to boards.

The CBE determined in March that a move by the province to freeze fuel-contingency funding would cost it $2.3 million during the 2013-14 school year.

School squeeze. More space could be freed up if budget improves: Minister Space could be freed up for more Alberta post-secondary students as early as January, providing the province's economic forecast clears up, says the advanced education minister.

Thomas Lukaszuk made the comments after officials with both the University of Calgary and Mount Royal University articulated struggles with balancing their books while also offering access to a record number of students applying to attend each institution.

In Mount Royal's case, specifically, the school actually has the capacity to hold 2,900 more students than it plans to and turned away 2,800 applicants last year.

Schools across the province were forced to slash staff, student levels and suspend programs after a 7.3 per cent cut to operating grants in March.

But Lukaszuk said data provided to him suggests

90 per cent of applicants last year were admitted to a post-secondary institutions and deemed the March cuts a "one-year setback."

"The fact is we know we're a growing province.... We know we're a young province, we know we attract young families and young workers, who often go back to school, and we know we will only diversify our economy through research, innovation and post-secondary education," he said.

The minister said he's met with the chairs of all 26 Alberta institutions and pledged to return to the provincial treasury board after the fiscal second quarter concludes at October's end.

If he's able to secure more funding, Lukaszuk said additional student positions could be added at some schools in time for the winter semester.

A FUNNY THING HAPPENED WHEN I GOT TO THE FORUM

IN DEFENCE OF Mike Morrison
calgary@metronews.ca

So much more than a political party

If you're like me and secretly revel in the awkwardness of drawn-out and uncomfortable Christmas dinners with your family or enjoy being dumbfounded by the always-inept arguments of one Donald Trump, then, actually, you'd probably like going to a political forum.

Raise your hand if you're planning on attending a political forum or debate before the upcoming election.

Hello? Anyone, anyone?

OK, so spending a night in a room full of people who find politics exciting doesn't necessarily thrill you, but actually you might be missing out. If you're like me and secretly revel in the awkwardness of drawn-out and uncomfortable Christmas dinners with your family or enjoy being dumbfounded by the always-inept arguments of one Donald Trump, then, actually, you'd probably like going to a political forum.

In the coming weeks, forums organized by CivicCamp, a non-partisan citizen's organization that was created back in 2009, will be held around the city. The forums give every candidate a chance to stand in front of their constituents and present their arguments or, in the case of the forum I attended, read the points that someone else likely wrote.

Not that I should really be playing favourites but I have to say that Ward 7, where I live, had, based on its location alone, probably the best forum. Planted right in the middle of Eau Claire Market, I spent the first part of the forum listening to candidates from the Sumo Lounge's indoor patio, sipping sake and eating some sushi. Later on, I happily listened to candidates from inside a candy store.

Actually, maybe forums would be better attended if they all gave voters easy access to candy stores?

Beyond swimming in awkward tension, forums are also a great place to get answers to the issues you find important. While social-media platforms like Twitter can be helpful, simply posing a question to a candidate online usually brings with it an onslaught of attacks from their supporters, usually with anonymous profiles. Isn't that right, @alertcalgarian?

Of course, you can't please everyone and not all the candidates have been able to make room in their schedules for the forums. Mayor Naheed Nenshi astutely called out Sean Chu on his decision not to attend the Ward 4 forum earlier this week. Luckily, if you missed the forums like Chu did, CivicCamp posts them online within a few hours.

This Monday, CivicCamp will host the Citizens' Mayor Forum, with eight of the nine mayoral candidates — yes, there are eight people running against arguably Canada's most popular mayor (which I think is great, by the way.)

But while the mayoral race might seem like a forgone conclusion, it will be interesting to see what ideas everyone brings to the table.

And while the forum isn't taking place in Eau Claire, the MacEwan Hall Ballroom is a suitable replacement, especially when you consider how close it is to a pub.

Candidates debate recreation as city seeks long-term spending plan

P3 or not P3? Private-public partnerships discussed as viable options, despite city's previous bad experience

robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

As city staff issued a tender this week for a "comprehensive study" on Calgary's recreation needs over the coming decade, council candidates offered varied points of view on what's needed and how it should be done.

"What I'd like to do is start introducing a lot more P3 programs," Ward 2 candidate Joe Magliocca said, referring to public-private partnerships as a means of building new rec facilities.

Bernie Dowhan, also running in Ward 2, was more wary of the approach, given the city's experience in the past.

"The federal government didn't come through for this, in regards to P3's," he said, referring to a 2011 decision by Ottawa to reject close to $100 million in funding for new rec centres that caught the city off-guard and left officials scrambling to find other ways to pay for the projects.

Council ultimately opted to use money from a fund created by $42 million in "tax room" ceded by the provincial government in 2011 to fund four new rec facilities, now scheduled to open between 2015 and 2017.

Ward 12 incumbent Shane Keating said that made sense at the time, given the desperate need for facilities in new communities, but tax room shouldn't "automatically" be considered the way to pay for new recreation.

One bad experience with the P3 Canada Fund, he added, shouldn't put private partnerships in general off the table.

"I have absolutely no problem with investigating P3's at any point in time," Keating said.

Recreation was also raised as an inner-city issue at a Ward 7 forum this week, not just in the context of building new facilities, but maintaining existing ones.

"We need to take care of what we have," Ward 7 incumbent Druh Farrell said.

10-year plan

On Monday, a request for proposals was issued, seeking "a qualified consulting firm to complete a comprehensive study of City of Calgary recreation facilities."

- The study is to analyze both current facilities and "the current and future service provision needs of the community from a city-wide and regional perspective."
- The consultants are also asked to provide "a long-term capital planning strategy" to help guide recreation-related decisions over the next 10 years.

Trustee. Candidates divided on second party for CBE retiree

Some candidates in the upcoming Calgary school trustee election were quick to criticize a second soiree for a retiring superintendent, while others said they saw nothing wrong with the affair.

Metro first reported Wednesday that 100 current and former CBE staff along with their partners attended a function at the Earl Grey Golf Club in honour of departing executive Deborah Lewis. It was the second gathering after superintendents also dined March 8 at Il Sogno. The dinner came with a bill of $1,476, while the board announced Thursday the golf club function, held April 11, cost $3,333.

But Misty Hamel, a trustee challenger in wards 6 and 7, said the bills didn't sit right with her from her perspective as a mother and member of the community. She was quick to note the March 7 provincial budget had already led CBE executives to begin considering cuts to the classroom when the functions were held.

Cash bar

Guests at the Earl Grey Golf Club function snacked on hors d'oeuvres and had to pay for their own alcohol, Calgary Board of Education Chief Supt. Naomi Johnson said earlier this week.

"They should have been more sensitive," Hamel said. "If you're going to make budgets cuts to something that's very important to society — education — then maybe throw a potluck dinner."

But George Lane, incumbent in wards 6 and 7, who is competing against Hamel as well as mother and researcher Trina Hurdman, said it's important to honour valued employees like Lewis. "This isn't the age of Dickens where people had to bring their own toilet paper ... what does the city do (for retiring employees)? What do other large school boards do?"

Heisenberg's kid is coming to Calgary.

Tickets are now on sale to see actor RJ Mitte — who played the breakfast-loving star of AMC's hit show — to host a Breaking Bad-themed bash at Cowboys Casino on Oct. 24.

This comes only weeks after 10.3 million viewers tuned in to watch the last episode of the Emmy-winning drama.

"Our customers are fans," said Scarlet Lee of Cowboys' parent group. "It makes sense for us to bring in really unique entertainment."

Penny Lane Entertainment Group has brought in other celebrities including Kim Kardashian, Willie and Korie Robertson of Duck Dynasty and Snooki of Jersey Shore fame.

Details are yet to come. However, it's clear the party won't be promoting the show's signature blue meth.

"We obviously don't support drugs of any kind," Lee said.

The 21-year-old Mitte, who, like his character on the show, has mild cerebral palsy, has become an advocate for people with disabilities.

"RJ is the nicest kid in the world," Michael Schweiger of Central Entertainment Group told Metro Thursday. "There's a real story to tell with this kid."

Tickets are still available. General admission costs $15, plus fees. Cowboys is also offering meet-and-greet tickets for $100.

Search for Calgary man may be nearing end

British Columbia. 25-year-old Kevin Boutilier is believed to have drowned in Shuswap Lake in August

robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

After over a month of searching for a Calgary man believed to have drowned in Shuswap Lake, police and volunteers in British Columbia plan one more outing before considering a suspension of the recovery effort.

"They want another day on the water with the remote-operated vehicle," Sgt. Dave Dubnyk of the Sicamous RCMP said Thursday.

"After that, the entire search area will have been done, and then we've got to take a really hard look at if that's where we suspend the search at that point."

Kevin Boutilier, 25, is believed to have drowned on the lake on Aug. 24 in rough weather conditions.

His sister Karyn Boutilier wasn't available to speak Thursday, but previously told Metro her brother had lived a "full life" and had made an impact on numerous junior hockey teams, including the Calgary Canucks, Chilliwack Bruins, Airdrie Thunder and Horse Lake Chiefs.

Kevin was also working towards a power-engineering degree, she said, and planned to start a family.

Dubnyk said which day searchers next set out will depend on weather and resource availability, and it's possible they may find something that will lead them to continue searching.

But if they again come up with nothing, he said "difficult decisions" will have to be made.

"At some point we may just have to say we've exhausted every effort," Dubnyk said.

A new medical movement. Calgary doctor treating C. difficile with 'poop pills'

Forget the enema bag and the tube that snakes down the throat to the intestines. The future of treatment for persistent C. difficile infections may come in pill form.

A Calgary doctor who has been treating difficult-to-cure C. difficile for years with fecal transplants is reporting he has created what are in essence poop pills — and they do the trick.

Infectious diseases expert Dr. Tom Louie, a pioneer in the use of fecal transplants for C. difficile in Canada, has treated 27 patients with his handmade pills, and all 27 were cleared of their infections.

"They came in for lunch on an empty stomach ... and took 24 to 30 pills on average," Louie said of the regimen, which he described to fellow scientists at the IDWeek conference in San Francisco on Thursday.

Louie teaches at the University of Calgary. In a telephone interview, he said he saw no side effects, and the regime was surprisingly well tolerated by patients. "Nobody's thrown up. And nobody's complained of belly pain."

Other physicians who treat recurrent C. difficile with fecal transplants called the development good progress towards a day when there may be ready-to-use pills that can re-establish the bacterial balance for people suffering from the debilitating infection. THE CANADIAN PRESS

'We will forever love her.' Alberta Belieber who got visit from Justin dies

A young Alberta woman who got a visit with pop star Justin Bieber last year has died.

The family of 19-year-old Crystal Montgomery announced her death on Facebook.

A campaign on Twitter last fall convinced Bieber to see the sick woman.

He quietly visited Montgomery at Edmonton's Cross Cancer Clinic before heading to his sold-out concert at Rexall Place.

He then tweeted a photo of them both smiling from her hospital room.

Montgomery's mother, Rita, says on Facebook that her beautiful girl is now free of pain.

Newly unveiled space opens art up to Forest Lawn area

ArtBOX on 17E.

Multi-purpose facility all about revitalization and community involvement

GLENN KELLY
calgary@metronews.ca

Forest Lawn is about to get an artistic infusion.

A group of Calgary-area artists have joined together with Calgary Arts Development and the International Avenue Business Revitalization Zone to give art in the city a new home and Forest Lawn a fresh coat of paint in pastel, oil and acrylic.

The new artBOX on 17E sits in a once-abandoned, 4,900-square-foot building on 17 Avenue S.E. It's a gallery and artists' space created in an effort to revitalize empty storefronts, businesses and warehouses in the neighbourhood.

"Instead of an empty

Sharon Stevens and her fellow artists at the artBOX on 17E gallery are hoping to paint Greater Forest Lawn red, and a assortment of other colours, in an effort to revitalize the area. GLENN KELLY/FOR METRO vacant building where garbage collects and it's a derelict building, we're trying to animate it with activity and programming and arts," said artBOX on 17E facilitator Sharon Stevens. International Avenue

BRZ executive director Alison Karim-McSwiney said bringing in a dedicated arts hub has tremendous benefits for the area.

"We've always been a supporter of the arts," said Karim-McSwiney.

ArtBOX

With its grand opening Thursday, the artBOX on 17E is a multi-purpose space to be used as a presentation area for local artists as well as a studio, providing grants to innovative projects that follow the artBOX's mission statement of community involvement.

"Arts make a community vibrant and help drive economic development."

The multi-functional arts space will help on both of those fronts, she said.

Stevens is hoping to take advantage of an area that's yearning for this type of space.

"The thing that's important for me about this project is we're trying to draw the traffic out. It's about art in place, it's about art happening in East Calgary, and we are looking at ways of nurturing that and supporting it."

Pipeline crew discovers fossil of dinosaur tail

Dig it.

Paleontologists are busy in northwestern Alberta after a pipeline crew uncovered a fossil of a dinosaur.

The fossil skeleton is of the creature's tail, and experts believe the prehistoric beast might have been up to 10 metres in size.

Paleontologist Matthew Vavrek calls the find this week near Spirit River "a significant fossil discovery."

He said the challenge now is to carefully recover the fossil and perhaps find other parts to help determine the type of dinosaur.

People working on the excavation include members of the Philip J. Currie and Royal Tyrrell museums.

"I think the scientists on site believe that it is a hadrosaur, or duck-billed dinosaur, and it looks like there should be some additional parts of it still going back into the hill," Andrew Neuman, executive director of the Tyrrell, said Thursday.

Hadrosaurs were slow-moving plant-eaters that grazed on all fours like a cow.

The pipeline company was helping the scientists, loading the heavy fossil onto a truck where it is to be taken to a secure site for further study.

Neuman said if the rest of the dinosaur can be found, the discovery this week will become much more significant.

Mulcair slams Alta. for gagging oilsands critics

Drilling south of Fort MacKay. NDP leader was reacting to judge quashing rejection of coalition's application for standing Federal NDP Leader Thomas Mulcair says a judge's finding that Alberta's Environment Department has been covertly working to silence oilsands critics reinforces widespread cynicism that the province's approval process for projects is rigged.

"To have a judge come out so clearly and to say that there's an absolute breach of the fundamental rules of natural justice in the process simply reinforces the perception of a lot of Canadians in general — and a lot of Albertans in particular — that the dice have been loaded," Mulcair told reporters Thursday

NDP Leader Tom Mulcair, seen on Parliament Hill Monday, is criticizing the Alberta government for trying to silence oilsands critics. THE CANADIAN PRESS after meetings at the University of Alberta.

On Tuesday, Court of Queen's Bench Justice Richard Marceau said Environment Department bureaucrats contravened their own laws by enacting a shadow policy in 2009 to stop the Oil Sands Environmental Coalition from speaking to reviews of proposed oilsands operations.

Marceau, in his ruling, pointed to a 2009 briefing note from the department's northern region director to the top bureaucrat in the department at the time, deputy minister Jim Ellis.

The note said that while the coalition had been given standing in previous oilsands hearings, that should stop.

The director, who is not named in Marceau's judgment, suggested the coalition be rejected on the grounds it is not directly affected by the oilsands operations.

Marceau found that in June 2012 the director indeed used those grounds to reject the coalition's application for standing on a Southern Pacific Resource Corp. oilsands in situ drilling operation south of Fort MacKay.

Two members of the coalition, Pembina and the Fort McMurray Environmental Association, appealed the decision, leading to Marceau's decision this week to quash the government's rejection of the coalition.

Heroin for some addicts. Ottawa closes 'loopholes' in special access program

Health Minister Rona Ambrose says she's banning certain drugs from a federal special access program.

They will include products containing heroin, unauthorized forms of cocaine and other restricted drugs, such as ecstasy and LSD.

Ambrose says those drugs won't be authorized for patients under new regulations that take effect immediately.

She says the ban won't affect clinical trials or university research.

The special access program is designed to let patients in exceptional cases get medications normally not allowed in Canada.

Students bare all to protest dress code

About 10 male and female students and their professor at the University of Kaposvar's arts school in southern Hungary took off their clothes in class Thursday to protest the new

The rules announced this week include a ban on dresses showing too much cleavage, miniskirts, excessive makeup and flip-flops.

Students said they plan to attend classes in flip-flops and beach towels on Monday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Woman shot dead in D.C. ramming spree

White House to Capitol Hill. Driver tried to break through security with an infant inside the vehicle

A woman with a year-old child led Secret Service and police on a harrowing car chase from the White House past the Capitol on Thursday, attempting to penetrate the security barriers at both national landmarks before she was shot to death, police said.

The child survived.

"I'm pretty confident this was not an accident," said Metropolitan Police Chief Cathy Lanier. Still, Capitol Police said there appeared to be no terrorist link. Authorities would not say whether the woman had been armed.

Tourists, congressional staff and even some senators watched as a caravan of law-enforcement vehicles chased a car down the street outside the Capitol.

House and Senate lawmakers, inside debating how

Police open fire

"There were multiple shots fired, and the air was filled with gunpowder."

Witness Berin Szoka, whose office overlooks the shooting scene to end a government shutdown, briefly shuttered their chambers as Capitol Police shut down the building.

The woman's car at one point had been surrounded by police cars and she managed to escape, careening around a traffic circle and past the north side of the Capitol.

Video shot by a TV cameraman showed police pointing firearms at her car before she rammed a Secret Service vehicle and continued driving. Lanier said police shot and killed her a block north-east of the historic building.

One Secret Service member and a veteran of the Capitol Police were injured.

U.S. shutdown. Americans learn that, yeah, the feds run a whole bunch of stuff

Americans are finding their lives upended in startling ways by the government shutdown now in its third day. Weddings are in peril, vacations are ruined and a farmer can't even cash a cheque.

The federal government, people are learning, comprises a lot more than the stereotypical faceless bureaucrat.

About 800,000 of those workers, from tax agents to janitors, are bearing the brunt of the shutdown, forced to stay home without pay.

Two dozen October weddings, including nine this week, are in jeopardy because they're scheduled for closed-off monument sites in Washington. The same was true for a couple planning to marry at the Grand Canyon.

Or consider the Wisconsin farmer who can't cash a cheque for a cow he sold.

Ben Brancel, the state's agriculture secretary, said that because the farmer has a federal loan, he can't cash the cheque without both his own signature and one from a Farm Service Agency official.

American Indian tribes, who rely more heavily on federal subsidies, are coping with disrupted services including foster-care payments, nutrition programs and financial assistance for the needy.

Some tribes intend to fill the gap in federal funds themselves, risking deficits of their own to cushion communities with chronic high unemployment and poverty.

Also taking a hit is the federal Head Start program that provides pre-school, meals and health care to more than a million low-income children a year.

Aspiring home owners applying for a mortgage can expect delays, especially if the shutdown is prolonged.

One possible silver lining: The whole thing could serve as a teachable moment for all those people who tell pollsters they want budget cuts — as long as they aren't directly affected. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gambling group goes all in on new online ads

Not ready to fold 'em just yet. Internet poker has been outlawed in the U.S. since 2011, but the casino lobby is betting that can be changed

The thriller Runner Runner starring Justin Timberlake and Ben Affleck opens this weekend and it's already in the centre of the fight over U.S. online gambling regulation.

It might be news to Timberlake and Affleck, but the stars of gambling flick were playing key roles in the fight over online gambling regulation Thursday, before the movie even hit screens.

Ben Affleck, right, and Justin Timberlake are seen in a scene from the film Runner Runner. 20TH CENTURY FOX/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Gambling Association has bought ads on major websites including Twitter, Facebook and the IMDb movie database framing the film as a "cautionary tale" that points to the need for Congress to legalize online poker. The ads also pop up when people Google the movie's title.

The screenwriters have said their story of a young gambler pulled into the criminal dealings of an offshore poker site was never intended as a political parable. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pope follows in the footsteps of the Franciscan friars

Sandals in a style worn by Franciscan friars are displayed for sale in a shop on October 3 in Assisi, Italy. Pope Francis is taking his vision of a church for the poor to the birthplace of his namesake, the Catholic saint who made solidarity with the destitute the focus of his mission. The Pope was set to travel Friday to the Italian hilltop town of Assisi to pray at the tomb of St. Francis and to deliver a much-anticipated speech on his vision for the Roman Catholic Church. MARCO SECCHI/GETTY IMAGES

Peace activist Audrey Tobias, 89, steps out of a Toronto court to speak with journalists Thursday. CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Census protester won't back down, pleads not guilty

'I am ashamed of my prime minister.'
89-year-old objects to U.S. company's involvement in Canadian process; Crown says no lawful excuse for refusal

A defiant octogenarian pleaded not guilty Thursday to criminal charges arising out of her refusal to fill out the 2011 census, and said she would not pay any fine if convicted.

Audrey Tobias, 89, of Toronto, told an Ontario court she agreed with the aims of the census, but objected to the involvement of American arms behemoth Lockheed Martin.

"When I learned that the contract for the information technology was being given to a foreign company, I was shocked," Tobias testified.

"I am ashamed of my prime minister ... who ultimately made the decision. Because of that, I couldn't fill it in."

Tobias is charged with violating the Statistics Act.

The defence maintained that forcing her to complete the census would violate her freedoms of conscience and free expression.

Judge Ramez Khawly was clearly skeptical as lawyer Peter Rosenthal made his arguments, and wondered aloud what would happen if the court sent a "signal" that it was OK to opt out of the census.

The Crown said Tobias had no lawful excuse for her refusal.

Tobias said she was unconcerned about the consequences of a conviction, which carries a maximum three months in prison. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two Canadians, entire Greenpeace crew charged

Two Canadians are among those facing prosecution after Russian investigators say they charged the entire crew of the Greenpeace ship Arctic Sunrise with piracy for a protest at a Russian oil platform.

The crew includes Alexandre Paul of Montreal and Paul Ruzyski of Port Colborne, Ont., and the charge they both face can result in a 15-year prison term upon conviction.

Greenpeace denies any wrongdoing and describes the charges as absurd. The mother of one of the Canadians says they make no sense.

"I think we can agree that piracy involves weapons and taking control of another vessel. Greenpeace did nothing like that," Paul's mother, Nicole Paul, said in a phone interview from Pike River,

In this photo taken Wednesday, the Russian Investigative Committee inspects the Arctic Sunrise near Murmansk, Russia.

Nicole Paul said her son has travelled the globe the last seven years to defend his ideals and that he once spent a night in prison in Scotland before being released without charge.

"Nothing has ever happened like this. They're being treated like terrorists."

She said the activists were protesting peacefully.

In Russia, the Investigative Committee said in a statement that the piracy charge was filed Thursday against 16 members of the crew, including a prominent Russian freelance photographer. The crew's other 14 members were similarly charged Wednesday.

Police investigate after 6 severed cat heads found

Cat owners in a community north of Toronto are being warned to keep their pets indoors after a number of severed cat heads were found.

York Regional Police said Thursday there have been six recent incidents in Whitchurch-Stouffville where heads and, in one case, other body parts of a dismembered cat were found in public locations.

Investigators don't know what the motive behind the dismemberments could be, said Const. Andy Pattenden.

But he said it's believed the dismemberments were done intentionally, adding the heads were all placed within a one-kilometre area in residential neighbourhoods.

The first incident was reported Aug. 12 when a head and two legs were found near a daycare centre.

Hundreds dead or missing as migrant ship sinks off Italy

Tragedy. Boat carried nearly 500 from Eritrea, Ghana and Somalia; only three of the 100 women were rescued, no children

It was the third ship of the night to head toward the tiny Italian island of Lampedusa packed to the brim with migrants seeking a better life in Europe. The first, filled with Syrians, arrived about 10 p.m. The second, carrying Eritreans, slipped in at 2 a.m. The third never reached the shore.

At least 114 people died and at least 200 were still unaccounted for late Thursday after a crowded fishing boat carrying African migrants from Tripoli caught fire, flipped over and sank.

In the dark of night, hundreds of men, women and children who didn't know how to swim were flung into the sea about a half-mile from Lampedusa. Between 450 and 500 people were believed to be on board; only 159 were rescued.

After the boat started taking on water, someone on board set a fire to get the attention of passing ships. The flames spread and panicked passengers surged to one side to avoid the fire. The 20 metre vessel the capsized.

A rescued man is carried off an ambulance. ALESSANDRO FUCARINI/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pietro Bartolo, of Lampedusa, said the death toll would certainly rise as search operations continued.

"It's an immense tragedy," said Giusi Nicolini, mayor of Lampedusa.

USED CARS TO BE SOLD FOR $1

Carl Holst, Sales Manager of Stampede Toyota, just announced plans to hold a One dollar used car and truck sales event Taking Place, Tomorrow, Saturday October 5, 2013. According to Mr. Holst record sales from the last few months have resulted in an overstock of trade-ins. "In the last three months our sales have increased at a tremendous rate", Holst said. "Now, we must reduce the number of cars and trucks on our used lot to a more manageable number. During this $1 sale every used car and truck will be sold for hundreds or thousands below its original price." Mr. Holst said. "In fact, cars that normally sell for five to eight thousand dollars will be sold for three to five thousand," Mr. Holst said. "Our customers will find these prices even lower than at wholesale auctions."

Auction bidding often inflates the true value of a car so you pay more. Here every car is on sale, first come first served and no bidding. It's the perfect opportunity to get a good quality used car at the lowest price possible, including cars for only One dollar. All cars will be on display at Stampede Toyota on Barlow Trail, 2 blocks North of the Trans Canada

Calgary's largest Toyota certified used vehicle dealer is overstocked and is forced to sell used cars and trucks for as low as $1, Saturday October 5, 2013 during a one-day sale event.

Highway. At 8:00 am all vehicles will be opened so that buyers may inspect the vehicles for one hour before the sale begins at 9:00am when the prices are posted on the windshield you will be given the first opportunity to purchase the vehicle at the sale price. This innovative approach to selling used vehicles will make it easy and quick for anybody in the market for a good used vehicle to get a great car or truck at a very low price with no hassle.

"Wholesale buyers will be represented to take trade-ins during the sale," Mr. Holst said. "We also have three business managers who will help buyers arrange low-cost financing. We've got over $10 Million Dollars in inventory to choose from. Our total inventory will be close to 400 new and used cars and trucks. We want to remind everyone that this is a one-day sale only. When our inventory has been reduced, we will remove the sale prices and return to normal operations. Since we are a local business we would like to give back to the community," Mr. Holst said. "We would rather allow local people to buy these overstocked vehicles than wholesale them at an auction." All cars will be reduced every hour and then there will be 6 cars that will be reduced every hour until they get to $1. These special $1 sale cars are in a separate section at the front of the dealership. Due to the volume of sales during this event, please no telephone inquiries.

Alleged Silk Road website operator arrested at library

'Dread Pirate Roberts'

Police allege Ross William Ulbricht's site handled more than $1B in illegal drugs, services

FBI agents found him in the science fiction section of a small branch of the San Francisco public library, chatting online.

The man known as Dread Pirate Roberts — 29-year-old Ross William Ulbricht — was on his personal laptop Tuesday afternoon, authorities said, talking about the vast black market bazaar that is believed to have brokered more than $1 billion in transactions for illegal drugs and services.

This frame grab from the Silk Road website shows thumbnails for products allegedly available through the site. SILKROADDRUGS.ORG/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When a half-dozen FBI agents burst into the library in a quiet, blue-collar neighbourhood, they abruptly ended Ulbricht's conversation with a co-operating witness, pinned the Austin, Texas, native to a floor-to-ceiling window and then took him off to jail, law enforcement and library spokeswomen said.

Ulbricht was later charged in criminal complaints in federal courts in New York and Maryland. He's accused of making millions of dollars operating the secret Silk Road website and of a failed murder-for-hire scheme, all while living with two roommates whom he paid $1,000 to rent a room. 90 fashion brands come clean on Bangladesh factories

Safety. H&M, Joe Fresh among retailers that have signed an agreement to improve working conditions

For the first time, brand-name clothing manufacturers operating in Bangladesh have compiled and published a list of the 1,566 factories they are using to produce fast fashions.

In the aftermath of the Rana Plaza collapse that killed 1,129 people nearly six months ago, 90 brand name clothing manufacturers — such as H&M, Primark and Joe Fresh — signed a legally binding agreement to improve safety in the factories they operate in.

The Accord on Fire and Safety in Bangladesh brings 90 brands, global unions and non-governmental organizations together with the promise to start holding regular inspections of all their suppliers' factories, make those reports public and finance repairs to unsafe work places.

The list of approximately 1,566 factories includes more than 2 million employees. And now those employees are covered by the accord's safety net, says Tom Grinter, a spokesperson for IndustriALL, a global union working with the brands under the International Labour Organization.

Most of this information has never been disclosed before in the complex and secretive world of the fast fashion industry.

"This is one of the factors that has created the problem worldwide — the secrecy of the supply chain," Grinter said.

Cheap labour

- For years, North American and European fashion brands have used garment factories in Bangladesh, due to the availability of cheap labour and the factories' ability to quickly turn around orders to keep up with changing fashion demands.
- Companies may have contracts to produce clothes in one factory, but that factory may then contract out some of the work in order for the garments to be produced faster. Those subcontractors can also send work out again to other factories.

Bangladeshi garment workers cheer during a meeting last month demanding a minimum monthly salary of $103, in Dhaka, Bangladesh. Hoax reveals Wild West of open-access journals

Over the past year, a study describing the astounding anticancer properties of a chemical found in lichen was submitted to hundreds of open-access scientific journals.

There was just one problem. The study was garbage — riddled with blatant errors, meaningless graphs and ethical red flags — and its authors were imaginary.

The paper was a hoax designed to flush out journals that charge authors a fee for publishing their work but fail to perform any peer review, the process of blind evaluation designed to screen out bad science.

But even John Bohannon, the Harvard biologist and Science magazine contributing correspondent who designed the sting operation, was surprised by its results.

Of the 304 journals where the paper was submitted, 157 accepted it for publication. Only 36 provided reviewer comments identifying the study's glaring flaws; among those journals, 16 accepted the paper anyway.

Bohannon's experiment is sure to provoke an already raging debate over the emerging ecosystem of open-access journals. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Former warlords to run in election

Afghanistan 2014.

Candidate claims he can unite ethnic groups in war-torn country

After karzai

"We will move to unite Afghanistan."

Abdul Rab Rasoul Sayyaf

Two former Afghan warlords announced Thursday that they will share a ticket — one for president, the other for vice-president — in next year's elections, a vote that will help shape the country's future following the departure of foreign combat troops.

Abdul Rab Rasoul Sayyaf, an influential lawmaker and religious scholar, registered his candidacy for the presidency for the April 5 election.

Another former warlord, former energy and water minister Ismail Khan, will run as Sayyaf's first vice-president, and a little-known member of Afghanistan's upper house, Abdul Wahab Irfan, as second vice-president.

"We will move to unite Afghanistan. If the nation is together and has the same voice, problems can be solved," Sayyaf said.

Registration expires Oct. 6, and four presidential candidates and their respective vice-presidents have signed up so far.

The most prominent is former foreign minister Abdullah

Abdullah, who was the runner-up to President Hamid Karzai in the 2009 elections and dropped out just ahead of a runoff vote following allegations of massive fraud in the first round.

Karzai can't run for a third consecutive term and has not yet endorsed anyone. There are no clear favourites, but speculation in recent days has focused on Foreign Minister Zalmai Rassoul, who may wind up as a consensus candidate, and Karzai's older brother Quayum, who is a businessman and politician.

Billions of dollars in funds pledged to Afghanistan are tied to the government's holding transparent and credible elections, a challenge in a country rife with patronage and corruption and a resilient Taliban insurgency. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Guantanamo Bay prison. Mentally ill man jailed for 11 years could be released

The U.S. government has dropped its opposition to releasing a Guantanamo Bay prisoner with severe mental and physical illnesses, apparently conceding the argument that he is far too sick to keep locked up at the U.S. base in Cuba.

In court papers filed late Wednesday, lawyers for the Justice Department said the government would not object to a judge issuing a release order for Ibrahim Idris. The native of Sudan has been held for more than 11 years as an enemy combatant despite being diagnosed as mentally ill soon after his arrival at Guantanamo.

The court filing was couched in careful language that avoided saying why the government would no longer resist legal efforts to release Idris. It also stressed that the U.S. was not acknowledging it lacks the authority or evidence to hold him. Nevertheless, it was a rare and significant victory for a Guantanamo prisoner.

A federal judge must still issue the order before Idris can be released.

Russia evacuates diplomats after Wednesday attack

Russia on Thursday evacuated all of its diplomats and their families from Libya, the day after a mob attack on the Russian Embassy, and issued a warning to its citizens against visiting the country.

The Russian Foreign Ministry said none of the embassy staff was hurt in Wednesday's attack, which came in response to the death of a Libyan air force officer, who was allegedly killed by a Russian woman.

How a humble razor embodies the art of selling to the developing world

Marketing. In India, designing a relevant product meant going into people's homes to watch them shave

Quoted

"It made P&G realize how much investment it really takes to be successful in India."

Bernstein analyst Ali Dibadj

Procter & Gamble executives say it was striking the first time they witnessed a man shave while sitting barefoot on the floor in a tiny hut in India. He had no electricity, no running water and no mirror.

The 20 U.S.-based executives observed the man in 2008 during one of 300 visits they made to homes in rural India. The goal? To gain insights they could use to develop a new razor for India.

"That, for me, was a big 'a-ha,'" said Alberto Carvalho, vice-president, global Gillette, a unit of P&G. "I had never seen people shaving like that."

The visits kicked off the 18 months it took to develop Gillette Guard, a low-cost razor designed for India and other emerging markets.

Introduced three years ago, Guard quickly gained market share and today represents two out of every three razors sold in India. The story of how Guard came to be illustrates the balance companies must strike when creating products for emerging markets: It's not as simple as slapping a foreign label on an American product.

To successfully sell products overseas, particularly in developing markets, companies must tweak them so they're relevant to the people who live there. And often, that means rethinking everything from the product's design to its cost.

More companies will have to consider this balancing act as they increasingly move into emerging markets such as India, China and Brazil to offset slower growth in developed regions such as the U.S.

Ali Dibadj, a Bernstein analyst who follows P&G, said the Guard razor, which has been used by more than 50 million men in India, serves as a road map for companies seeking to court emerging markets.

India long has been an attractive country for U.S. companies looking for growth. It has 1.24 billion people, and its economy is bustling.

Still, India's widespread poverty presents challenges for companies used to customers with more disposable income. India's per capita income is just about $124 US a month, compared with $4,154 in the U.S., according to the World Bank. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christine Peterson: Stepping up for kids

CURSON
For Metro

In 2011, with a season at risk and the Varsity tykes soccer program on life support, Christine Peterson, an ICU nurse at Foothills Hospital and busy mother of three, decided to step in to help save the patient.

"If this is important enough for me to put my kids into, then it's important enough for me to step up," said Peterson, whose family moved to Varsity in April 2009.

They had to wait for the following spring for the kids to join the 40-year-old league, which registers 240 players annually, grouped U4 to U12.

"They were desperate for volunteers, so I ended up working with another mum just co-ordinating U6s," Peterson said.

But as the 2011 season approached with no word about the program the diagnosis was even worse.

"I kept asking, 'Who's running it, what's the registration?' Peterson said.

"I emailed a few of the other ladies ... and we realized there wasn't a co-ordinator. That's how I ended up co-ordinating (the program). Nobody else was doing it."

A former competitive field hockey player and coach, Peterson's previous experience came in handy.

"It's not a big stretch whether you organize field hockey or soccer. Any league is the same — what you have to organize is who and when. You don't have to know the sport to organize the league."

Even so, Peterson admits jumping in wasn't easy.

"Fortunately, I had ... a good group of people willing to step up, so it wasn't all on my shoulders. If it had been, that would have been a different story."

Having longtime suppliers also helped, Peterson said. "Our jersey supplier has been doing it for years and he's great to work with. I really wanted to keep it in the community."

Clare Fewster, who has coached in the league and last season managed the equipment, said community focus is one of Peterson's best qualities.

That and the fact she is a genuinely nice person.

"People want to volunteer with people who are nice," Fewster said, adding, "She's pretty laid back and willing to let people do their thing."

After three years as league co-ordinator and with her own kids following other interests, Peterson has decided to pass the ball. But chances are this won't be her last volunteer commitment.

"If everybody volunteered just a little bit more, it wouldn't be on just a few people's shoulders."

Christine Peterson volunteered as Varsity soccer league co-ordinator for three years. CONTRIBUTED

BlackBerry. Rogers opts not to stock Z30 model

A decision to forgo the latest BlackBerry smartphone has wireless carrier Rogers defending itself against claims that it's abandoning a longtime relationship with the struggling Canadian company.

Rogers Communications, one of the country's largest wireless carriers, faced an unexpected backlash on Thursday after what it called a "routine decision" to exclude the new BlackBerry Z30 touchscreen model from its lineup.

Social media and message boards were flooded with comments from some customers who said they would consider cancelling their services with Rogers in protest. Rogers president Rob Bruce said he was surprised and perplexed by the reaction, but that the company wouldn't change its decision.

"Part of our success is choosing a portfolio of devices that's a winning portfolio for our customers," he said. "This is exactly the kind of decision that this was," Bruce said, adding that the choice had been made several months ago.

The reaction followed an announcement from BlackBerry on the release date of its Z30 touchscreen model, which is roughly the size of a Samsung Galaxy 4.

The list of wireless firms who would stock the device didn't include Rogers.

YOUTUBE GETS A FILM FEST

YOUTUBE/SCREENGRABS

Just weeks after some of Hollywood's biggest names cleared town at the end of the Toronto International Film Festival, the city will soon be host to another barrage of visiting filmmakers attending a multi-day festival. This one is dedicated to the art of YouTube.

The inaugural Buffer Festival, which highlights the work of some of the top creators on Google's video streaming website, comes to Toronto on Nov. 8 and runs for three days. While not household names, the creators behind the YouTube channels CTFXC, Charlie Is So Cool Like, DailyGrace, Jack's Films, The Fine Brothers and MysteryGuitarMan — all pictured, clockwise from top left — as well as Prank vs Prank, SchmoYoHo, IISuperwomanII and What the Buck? each have more than one million subscribers who have signed up to see everything they post online.

"In 2011, YouTube was definitely something that everyone knew about, but I think in 2013 it's something that everybody not only knows about but is starting to respect and the public is starting to become aware of what a YouTube celebrity is," said St. Catharines, Ont., native Corey Vidal, whose company ApprenticeA Productions is spearheading the festival.

Rdio launches free mobile listening

Digital music service Rdio launched its free Internet radio service in the U.S. and Canada on Thursday. For now, the app that works on Apple and Android devices won't play ads between the songs that are randomly picked based on genres, artists, songs or albums. The company hopes nonpaying listeners will sign up for a $10-a-month subscription that adds features like the ability to pick and choose exact songs and albums.

LIFE HAPPENS BETWEEN COMMERCIALS

It's time to gather around the virtual water cooler for this week's Metro List. Here goes:

1 Shutdown rerun. Is the U.S. government really shut down, or is this just an uncanny re-enactment of a 2003 episode of The West Wing, called, naturally, Shutdown? Let's hope life imitates art and they get this thing solved before the commercial break.

2 True patriot love for everyone. Not just all "thy sons," as in O Canada. Prominent Canadians Margaret Atwood and former PM-for-a-day Kim Campbell want to change the national anthem to "true patriot love in all of us command." Benefits: gender neutrality and one less "thy." Drawbacks: it still doesn't make much sense.

3 Speaking of patriots. The author of The Hunt for Red October and Patriot Games may have died this week at 66, but Tom Clancy the brand lives on. His 17th novel, Command Authority, is due out in time for Christmas, and there's a new movie — Shadow One — featuring his main character, Jack

Paul Sullivan

Ryan, due for release at the same time. The former insurance salesman had 100 million books in print and left a fortune worth $300 million on the strength of a single plot line: America wins. It's fiction, after all.

4 50 shades of red in the face. Believe it or not, 52,500 people (so far) have signed a petition protesting the selection of screen newcomers Dakota Johnson and Charlie Hunnam to play the heroine and hero of turgid bondage fantasy 50 Shades of Grey, preferring Alexis Bledel and Matt Bomer instead. Whoever they are. Fans have even put together fake trailers of the two in the lead roles. Alexis Bledel is reported to be flattered and more than a little freaked out to be so honoured. Imagine how Dakota and Charlie feel: What, we're not kinky enough?

5 Jacques Parizeau, enlightenment philosopher. Even the politically tone-deaf Parti Québécois must realize it's in trouble when the party's notorious grouch emeritus gives thumbs-down to the proposed charter banning religious dress such as burkas and paraphernalia such as kirpans from the public-service workplace. Even he, who once blamed "ethnic votes" for losing an election, says it goes too far. Although Parizeau is a former PQ premier, that doesn't cut any ice with party brass, who are all shrugging in harmony. They'll "consider" his comments, says a spokesperson, as well as the other 25,000 comments left on the PQ website.

6 Well, she's, like, really old or something. It says something about our health-care system when a hospital sends a 90-year-old blind woman home in a taxi in a rain storm, wrapped in a bed sheet, dressed only in her PJs and slippers, bleeding and alone at 2:30 a.m. Something that cannot be repeated in a family newspaper. B.C.'s Premier Christy Clark expressed concern and Fraser Health authority has apologized to Vivian Fitzpatrick, but really? They should be made to eat hospital food after awakening her at that hour for no reason at all.

Damselflies hold legs in cute picture

These vividly coloured damselflies look like they are on a romantic date, seemingly holding each other while cuddling up with a flower.

Italian photographer Alberto Ghizzi Panizza spotted these cute insects near the River Po in the Po Valley, Italy. He took shots of the damselflies shortly after dawn as they rested on wild flowers. METRO

Q and A

'Jostling for a position to rest'

ALBERTO GHIZZI PANIZZA
Photographer, 38,
from Parma, Italy

What is their normal behaviour?
They rest alone on flowers to dry their wings, which get covered in early-morning dew, so the insects are in fact competing for rights to that resting spot. They look like they are affectionately holding "hands" but in truth the bugs are just jostling for a position to rest.

What does the photograph have to tell us?
Beneath every wildlife photograph is the message that we should always respect nature.

This is a bug's life

- There are 5,000 species of Odonata (damselflies and dragonflies) — the scientific name meaning 'toothed ones' due to the insects' mandibles. They are carnivorous and hunt spiders and tiny fish.
- Odonata look the same as they did in the Jurassic era, about 135 million years ago.

Synopsis

This is a spacey story about medical engineer Dr. Ryan Stone (Sandra Bullock) and astronaut Matt Kowalsky (George Clooney). She's an uptight novice; he's a wisecracking vet on his final mission. It's routine stuff until a debris storm, comprised of bits and pieces of old satellites, crashes into their space shuttle. Stone is knocked "off structure" and drifting through the inky darkness while Kowalsky uses his experience and calm to rescue her. The storm has also knocked their communications offline and they are forced to become Space MacGyvers in order to survive.

Gravity. A story of isolation is couched in beautiful cinematography

Richard: Mark, Gravity is an ambitious film. From a technical point of view it's a wild outer space adventure, but it is grounded by Ryan Stone's personal story and her search to find meaning in her life. It's not an epic like 2001: A Space Odyssey or an outright horror film like Alien. There are no monsters or face hugging ETs. It's not even a movie about life or death. Instead it is a life-affirming movie about the will to survive.

What did you think?

Mark: Richard, I think the movie is about our deepest fear: the fear of being alone. Sandra Bullock is literally adrift and detached from everything and the effect is powerful. It may take place in space but reminded me of films like Castaway and 127 Hours.

RC: It does have a lot in common with those movies, plus some mind-bending special effects. The isolation of space is well portrayed, the "off structure" sequences are tense and effective and the shots of Bullock drifting in the inky darkness or floating through her space shuttle are beautiful, like interstellar ballet. As effective as the human story is in Gravity, however, I could almost imagine turning the sound down and being content to just watch the pictures. Like Laser Floyd in Space. What did you think of Bullock?

MB: She was great; very moving. But it's the cinematography that's the real star. Pure visual poetry. If there were ever a movie that deserved to be seen in 3D IMAX this is it. But the music was kind of overwrought, wasn't it?

RC: It's strange, but I don't really remember the music. There is no sound in space,

I guess. For me the movie is all about the visual beauty. The 17-minute-long uninterrupted shot that starts the film is spectacular and overall the look will make your eyeballs dance, although I wonder though if it isn't just a bit too in love with its technique in places. There's a scene where we see Bullock reflected in one of her own, gravity free, tears. It's a great image but one that feels a bit too clever. It was one of the few times in the film that I thought I was watching a special effect.

MB: I noticed the tears too, although I was just grateful she didn't have a runny nose.

Drama

The Spectacular Now

Director. James Ponsoldt

Stars. Miles Teller, Shailene Woodley

.....

The Spectacular Now may be this generation's The Breakfast Club. It's by no means as funny — it doesn't intend to be — but similar themes (and even the tidy use of an essay as an epilogue) are definitely present. In the film, a charming teen reluctantly falls for his rebound girlfriend even as he battles burgeoning alcoholism and a fuzzy future. Deftly directed by James Ponsoldt (Smashed), few films deal with teenage drama with such skilled tenderness.

Drama

The Hunt

Director. Thomas Vinterberg

Stars. Mads Mikkelsen

.....

Mads Mikkelsen is excellent as a small-town teacher wrongly fingered as a pedophile by the rest of the community, but he's acting in a vacuum. The supporting characters in The Hunt are all so broadly drawn that Mikkelsen's subtle acting stands out all the more vividly. Intended as a parable about the dangers of groupthink, Thomas Vinterberg's film is by turns powerful and unforgivably manipulative; instead of an ambiguous movie about guilt and blame, we get a heavy-handed melodrama.

Horror

All The Boys Love Mandy Lane

Director. Jonathan Levine

Stars. Amber Heard, Anson Mount

.....

Originally screened at TIFF in 2006, 50/50 director Jonathan Levine's debut finally gets a theatrical release in North America. The set-up is familiar to those with even a cursory interest in slasher flicks. A group of teens head to a cabin for a weekend of illegal substances and hopefully sex with the aloof Mandy Lane. But the party stops when friends start disappearing. Levine prefers to work within established horror film confines but aficionados will appreciate the curve balls. IAN GORMELY

Comedy

Girl Most Likely

Directors. Shari Springer Berman, Robert Pulcini

Stars. Kristen Wiig, Annette Bening

.....

Within the opening 10 minutes of Girl Most Likely, Kristen Wiig's cheerless character loses her job, gets dumped by her boyfriend and fakes a suicide. Then things get more contrived. The once-promising playwright reunites with her gambling-obsessed mother (Annette Bening) who lives with a Backstreet Boy impersonator and a wacky oddball who may have been a spy. While the promising cast works overtime to bring a flat script to life, their efforts end up mostly in vain. STEVE GOW

Machete Kills, but Machete also golfs and rescues dogs

Machete Kills opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

Danny Trejo. Despite his rough exterior, this character actor is just a big old teddy bear

liz.brown@metronews.ca

When Hollywood needs someone to play a badass Mexican, the only guy to call is Danny Trejo.

With his craggy face, pony tail and chest tattoo of a sombrero-clad woman, he's the kind of hombre that would make plump pasty Gringos run back to the border on those loco toe-dipping trips to Tijuana.

And he doesn't just have the look for these roles, he's got the resumé too. Highlights include past drug addiction and multiple stints in prison. He spent time in San Quentin in the 1960s and at one point during a riot threw a rock that struck a prison official — during that time a gas chamber offence.

But he's come a long way from those dark days. The sequel to Machete — his first leading-role film — hits theatres next Friday.

Machete Kills sees Trejo (a.k.a. Machete) in the employ of the quippy U.S. President (Charlie Sheen). His mission? To shut down a psycho billionaire arms dealer (Mel Gibson) intent on blowing up the world.

A 12-step program followed by a series of serendipitous events led Trejo to this new life — it's a change he attributes to the "grace of God."

"Every morning I wake up is an absolute blessing and every night I go to bed is an absolute blessing," he says in a phone interview from his home in L.A.'s San Fernando Valley.

At 69 years old, Trejo's interests have moved from prison brawling to golf and his rescue dogs.

Today, he's supervising a team of workers who are installing a driving range in his backyard.

"I'm doing a sitcom with George Lopez right now called Saint George and he gave me a set of golf clubs so it's like, 'Let's learn how to golf,'" he says.

There's a pause, a crash and raucous barking.

"HEY! YOU STOP THAT."

In another minute he's back on the line. "I have the most disobedient dogs in the world. I've got six of them. I just rescue them. I think they were all going to the gas chamber too," he laughs.

But back to Machete and all his other characters, like that knife-thrower in Desperado who takes down Steve Buscemi and almost ends Antonio Banderas.

That scene changed my life. It was so damn cool, I gush.

He laughs again.

"I can throw a knife, but you gotta remember that's movie magic, and (director Robert Rodriguez) is the best at it."

Apparently Machete is better at throwing double-headed axes. "I'm really good at that," he insists.

But for all his tough guy swagger, Machete isn't invincible.

"I had a sword fight with Mel Gibson in this movie and when Robert Rodriguez said, 'Action,' I threw my sword down and he said, 'What's wrong Danny?' and I said, 'I'm not fighting William Wallace, come on, he saved Scotland, are you crazy?'"

To find out who won that brawny battle, you'll have to check out the film on Oct. 11.

Tight dresses and lots of cigarettes: Gershon tells the Donatella story

House of Versace. Showgirls star lost weight, studied the icon in videos and smoked like a chimney for the TV movie

MATT PRIGGE
Metro World News in NYC

No one will ever say Gina Gershon made scared or inhibited role choices during her career. In the '90s, she threw herself at Showgirls, then followed that up with the lesbian neo-noir Bound. Last year she performed an unprintable NC-17 act on a chicken wing in Killer Joe. Playing Donatella Versace in the Lifetime movie House of Versace — which premieres this weekend — isn't on par with any of those. But she dives into the part with appropriate relish, nailing the fashion icon's walk and outsized charisma. Gershon took time to talk to Metro about the role.

Some people say you were doing a Donatella Versace impersonation when you were Fabia, the porn star, on Ugly Betty.

Everyone assumes she was Donatella, but if you look closely you realize she has nothing to do with her. This is the first time I've ever played her.

What was it like playing her seriously, then?

She's a remarkable woman. I think we all are familiar with her larger-than-life personality and her extravagance and her parties. But when I read the book and learned about her redemption story, I thought she was pretty fascinating. I'd have wanted to play this character whether it was Donatella or not.

You've never met her. How did you prepare?

Luckily there's a lot of video on her, and documentaries where she's getting ready to

Gina Gershon plays Donatella Versace in House of Versace. CONTRIBUTED

Raquel Welch. I love Raquel. She was the best. And you know what? She knows her lighting. She knows all that stuff. She comes to set and she's ready to go. She's a real professional. I dig her. I couldn't have been happier that she was there.

do a show. There's this one French documentary that I watched obsessively. Any interviews I could read or anything online — anything where I could watch and see her talk and walk. It's all about finding her walk and the way she wears clothes — super high heels, tight skirts, long hair and cigarettes. She has a lot of physicality going on. Her physicality is quite different from mine.

How was doing her accent?

She has a very specific accent. It's very deep and it's very slurry. She has that lazy southern Italian accent. I had to clean it up a little bit for television. Weirdly enough, they want you to be understood on television. But if you're really doing the accent, it should be in subtitles, because half the time you can't understand what she's saying.

What's different about doing a TV movie versus a theatrical film?

Time and money. If you're making a real movie, you have a lot more time and you usually have a lot more money.

How were the dresses?

Tight! It was right before summer. I had to do my little Donatella diet. I needed to lose a couple pounds anyway. I had to lose 10 or 11 pounds. It was perfect — right in time for bikini season, so I thank her for that. I was a little mad she smokes as much as she does, because that kind of killed me after awhile.

You weren't smoking real cigarettes, were you?

I was. The fake ones hurt my chest more than the real ones do. There's something in them that my system doesn't agree with. So I just smoked. It's not like I can't smoke. I'm one of those annoying smokers who smokes if I'm drinking. But if you're playing someone who's smoking, you end up smoking a couple packs a day. That wasn't the most pleasant thing. I respect her and like her, but I hope she stops smoking as much as she does.

Finales: The good, the bad and the non-existent

Finishing touch. The reaction to the end of series, or lack thereof, can give an indication to how truly great or terrible the show was

Now that the dust (and ricin) has settled from Sunday's Breaking Bad finale, it's worth considering what makes a drama series' exit good or bad.

As much as fans may miss Breaking Bad, they were able to bid farewell, satisfied that it met its obligations at the end no less than it did every week from the first episode. Breaking Bad left the air with a finale that stands alongside the best ever, inventively tying up five seasons of narrative loose ends.

Now what about a bad finale? Easy: Dexter, which aired the week before.

It was disappointing, full of holes and a disservice to a series

The ones that got away

Here are two examples of shows that were left hanging

- Deadwood. Fans of the HBO western series were given no closure after three seasons
- Law & Order. No finale was given to this drama that ran for 450 episodes that, against all odds, managed to make a sociopathic serial killer attractive and believable to viewers for eight slice-and-dice seasons. The finale was a contrivance meant to drag the series to the finish line. In only that respect did it succeed.

But not every worthwhile series even gets a finale. In 2010, Law & Order concluded after 20 seasons and some 450 episodes, missing a proper goodbye or opportunity for closure. Though it was largely episodic, without the serialized through-line many dramas trade on epically, Law & Order and its viewers were denied the ceremony they were due at the end. Similarly, Deadwood fans still grouse that HBO pulled the plug in 2006 after its three seasons with no finale or, despite vague promises by the network, a movie that could wrap up this rich, complex frontier saga.

The finale for House, though hardly at the level of best-ever, did right by this medical series when it aired in 2012 after an eight-season run. The quirky, pill-popping Dr. House was facing jail for a prank gone wrong as well as the demise of his cancer-ridden best friend. He faked his own death to evade arrest, then he and Wilson rode into the sunset on their motorcycles. The perfect getaway. The perfect ending.

No finale was more wickedly perfect than that of The Shield, aired in 2008. Detective Vic Mackey, its brutish anti-hero, received a fate worse than death or any prison term: the loss of authority as well as his family into witness protection, and a desk job as part of his immunity agreement.

Not only an honest tearjerker, the finale of Six Feet Under in 2005 was flawlessly in sync with the series' sensibility. A drama about a funeral home, it had been a five-season meditation on life and death. Fittingly, the finale tracked the life and eventual death of its family of characters. The moral was clear and beautifully drawn: No one is immune.

An argument can still be sparked among Sopranos fans over what that ending meant. Was the nervous implication (that Tony Soprano was about to be whacked as he dined with his family in a local restaurant) carried out after the screen went dark? Or had Tony, glancing up, just been acknowledging his daughter Meadow's entrance? Was the scene one of brilliant ambiguity (life goes on, whether or not TV keeps showing it to viewers), or a screwing-around-with-the-audience cop-out?

After all this time, no resolution has ever been arrived at, while, ever since that historic blackout, conflicting views have only hardened. The Sopranos got flack (and praise) for an inconclusive ending, and still does. The furious debate proves how good it was.

Breaking Bad (a vastly different show in nearly every way) chose a different kind of ending: Display the complete

Spoiler alert

Gilligan tells of choices behind good ending to Bad

MELINDA TAUB
Metro World News

And so, it has ended. Breaking Bad has gone to the big meth lab in the sky.

Whether things went down as you'd hoped or not, I think we can all agree that the show's ending was a lot more satisfying than, say, The Sopranos. Show creator Vince Gilligan says that finality was deliberate. "We went through a lot of false starts and endings that went nowhere, but we knew we needed to dot all the Is and cross all the Ts," he said on last night's behind the scenes show, Talking Bad.

"In some cases unanswered questions are good, but in this case, in a finite and closed-ended show, we needed resolution. The Sopranos ending I thought was great. I thought it was perfect for that show. This story was finite all along. It's a story that starts at A and ends at Z."

Spoilers for the final scenes ahead:

Gilligan also says that, in a way, Walter White got a happy ending. "I think in that last scene (Walt), is with his 'precious,' in Lord of the Rings terms. He's with that meth lab that he and Jesse designed, his baby, so to speak, and the lyrics to the song Baby Blue by Badfinger back that up. And I think he is at peace with himself. He has screwed up his life tremendously and I think he knows that, but he has accomplished the thing he has set out to accomplish." That's the true message of Breaking Bad, isn't it? You can accomplish anything if you work hard and believe in yourself.

puzzle with the pieces all in place, letting viewers at last see everything with clarity.

Good finales are recalled and spur conversation for years, as that of Breaking Bad is likely to do. Meanwhile, future finales are eagerly awaited, long before viewers are ready to turn loose of the series. For instance, Mad Men: What will be Don Draper's destiny? We've got two years to wonder. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bulat's third album informed by a loss

New music. Tall Tall Shadow, written using a free-style approach, walks the line between devastating and hopeful Basia Bulat still has a hard time talking about her recent loss of a loved one, which is perhaps part of why she chose to sing about it.

So it was that the Juno-nominated singer/songwriter found herself grief-stricken and reeling just two months before she was set to record the followup to her standout sophomore record Heart of My Own. She'd already crafted an album's worth of new material, but given the sad recent developments she was enduring, she tossed aside what she'd written and started again.

And she found the music

Juno nominated singer, Basia Bulat.

just poured out of her.

"I wanted to restart and ... really not hold myself back in the singing and the writing, and just see what might come out," the Toronto-based singer said in a recent interview. "It wasn't really, 'Now I'm going to write about this and now I'm going to write about that.' It was more of a free-form approach to writing.

"One of the songs on the record, It Can't Be You, I was just playing the triangle and singing, whatever came out was the song. It happened really quickly. It wasn't like, 'Hey, let's explore this.' It was literally what was in my heart at the time of writing."

And the resultant record — Tall Tall Shadow, in stores this week — is appropriately intimate and devastating as one would expect, but also fairly hopeful.

Perhaps that reflects what Bulat says was a liberating recording experience working with producers Tim Kingsbury and Mark Lawson, the former a member of Arcade Fire and the latter a Grammy-winning engineer on that Montreal band's 2010 smash The Suburbs. Past collaborator Howard Bilerman, another Arcade Fire associate, also contributed.

It's an all-Canadian affair this week with two new releases and something rescued from the archives.

The Slo/The Balconies

What began as a reasonably mild Toronto (by way of Ottawa) indie pop band has become more rugged and raw — and it suits them very well. Their latest video punctuates that.

However Long/Brendan Canning

A wonderfully gentle song from the Broken Social Scene co-founder from his just-released solo record, You Gots 2 Chill.

Back in 1999 on a promo tour of Australia, Winnipeg's Watchmen played an acoustic show at a place called the Hopetoun Hotel. This recording has been resurrected and posted for free download on the band's site.

Did Miley make Liam the star he is today? It seems Cyrus would say so While Miley Cyrus and Liam Hemsworth officially split in September, the breakup reportedly dragged out over four months — with Cyrus guilt-tripping Hemsworth for the bulk of it, according to Radar Online. “She was constantly reminding him that she ‘helped make him a star’ through their movie, The Last Song, and she’d brag that she ‘introduced him to the world,’” a source says. “Miley was super-manipulative with Liam and she used the movie to trap and guilt him into staying in a relationship with her.”

Bynes’ parents speak out on misinformed media

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News

After months of speculation about Amanda Bynes’ whereabouts and treatment, her mother Lynn Bynes has spoken publicly for the first time. “I would really like everyone out there to know that almost 99 per cent of the things written about my daughter in various media outlets are false or misleading,” Lynn told People in a statement.

Reports have placed

Amanda at various treatment facilities since she was placed in her parents’ custody this summer, but Lynn went on to explain that the Bynes family had decided not to release any details on Amanda’s condition.

“Please know that neither myself or other family members have ever released any information regarding her treatment or diagnosis. We truly believe in keeping our daughter’s situation private for now.”

Totally understandable. Let us know if you change your mind and would like to satisfy our nosy, inappropriate curiosity. We’ll be here.

Nothing compares to getting a cautionary letter from O’Connor

Sinead O’Connor is worried about Miley Cyrus — at least enough to pen an open letter to the Wrecking Ball singer. “I am extremely concerned for you that those around you have led you to believe — or encouraged you in your own beliefs — that it is in any way ‘cool’ to be naked and licking sledgehammers in your videos,” O’Connor writes. “You will obscure your talent by allowing yourself to be pimped, whether it is the music business or yourself doing the pimping. The music business doesn’t give a s— about you, or any of us. They will prostitute you for all you are worth and cleverly make you think it’s what you wanted, and when you end up in rehab as a result of being prostituted, ‘they’ will be sunning themselves on their yachts in Antigua, which they bought by selling your body and you will find yourself very alone.”

Pairing wine with seafood

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

As a proud Maritimer I know my way around a feed of anything that swims, crawls or attaches itself to a rock in the ocean.

As a wine guy, I'm also aware the term "seafood" casts a huge net, gathering hundreds of flavour profiles that make choosing one liquid partner to satisfy them all nearly impossible.

Of course your favourite aquatic inhabitant rarely gets served alone, so consider everything on the plate when looking for a wine mate.

While today's feature recipe may include more fish than an episode of Jacques Cousteau, it's really the tomatoes that put their stamp on the dish.

Though tomatoes can make a temperamental marriage with wine, seafood stew offers a robust-enough personality to go head-to-head with a red offering good acidity and subtle flavours.

An Italian Chianti is a great choice, as would a New World pinot noir. Mirasou Winery's 2011 Pinot Noir ($12.99 - $14.99) from California is ripe, round and fish-friendly with more than enough grip to tame the influential tomato base.

Former Ticat Williams on way to New Orleans

It didn't take Chris Williams long to land in the NFL.

The wide receiver, who negotiated his release from the CFL's Hamilton Tiger-Cats this week, has signed a contract with the New Orleans Saints, his agent said Thursday.

Dan Vertlieb, Williams' Vancouver-based agent, told The Canadian Press that Williams is headed to New Orleans. On Wednesday, Williams and the Ticats reached an agreement to allow CFL's top special-teams player last year to pursue opportunities in the NFL.

Debuting coach fined for outburst

Patrick Roy was fined $10,000 by the NHL on Thursday for his emotional outburst the night before in his Colorado Avalanche coaching debut.

Soon after the final horn of a 6-1 win, Roy yelled at Anaheim coach Bruce Boudreau and then pounded on the glass partition separating the two benches. Roy was livid over a late knee-to-knee hit on rookie Nathan MacKinnon.

Roy said he will "always defend (his) players."

Devils' Schneider outduelled by Fleury in Pittsburgh

Marc-Andre Fleury stopped 28 shots for his 250th NHL victory and franchise-record 24th shutout, and Sidney Crosby scored in Pittsburgh's two-goal first period to lead the Penguins to a 3-0 victory over the New Jersey Devils on Thursday night in the season opener for both teams.

Cory Schneider made 18 saves on 21 shots for the Devils. Schneider's start marked the first time in 19 years Martin Brodeur didn't play in the season opener for New Jersey. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We're not going to start tonight on Game 1 saying, 'Oh, we're young' and this. There's absolutely no excuse." Flames head coach Bob Hartley on all three second-period goals for Washington, which earned its first win after dropping the opener to the Blackhawks on Tuesday night.

Connor Carrick and Nicklas Backstrom also scored for Washington.

David Jones, Lee Stempniak, Huddler and Lance Bouma scored for Calgary. Karri Ramo made 35 saves.

Calgary, which has missed the playoffs the past four seasons, has lost four straight season openers.

"Very happy with the effort, obviously disappointed with the result," Flames coach Bob Hartley said. "I told the boys, 'It's one thing to play in the NHL, and there's a different way to win in the NHL.'" day night.

Washington was 2-for-3 on the power play.

Michal Neuvirth, who replaced an ineffective Braden Holtby, made 27 saves and stopped Sven Baertschi and Jiri Hudler in the shootout.

"You're looking for some sort of momentum change," Oates said of switching goalies after Calgary took a 3-0 lead in the first period.

"The time it takes to do that, maybe a new guy, the guys start talking among themselves. Some coaches yell. I just kind of said things to guys. You're just looking for them to re-group."

Marcus Johansson assisted

"We're not going to start tonight on Game 1 saying, 'Oh, we're young' and this. There's absolutely no excuse."

With the score 1-0 in favour of the Flames in the first period, Bouma's check left Washington defenceman Jack Hillen injured on the ice while Tom Wilson had a fight with Bouma.

Wilson and Bouma both connected on punches before Wilson flipped Bouma to the ice. Both received five-minute majors.

Hillen, who suffered a lower-body injury and did not return, was helped up and off the ice by teammates.

Oates said Hillen was at the hospital "is going to be out for a bit."

Cardinals ride big third inning to sink Pirates' ship

MLB playoffs. St. Louis rocks Burnett to take Game 1 of NLDS

Carlos Beltran, Adam Wainwright and the St. Louis Cardinals gave Pittsburgh a quick reality jolt.

Beltran's three-run homer sparked a seven-run third inning Thursday and the Cardinals got seven stingy innings from Wainwright to open their NL division series with a 9-1 rout of the Pirates.

"To be able to get out on a good first step and play well today I think is big for our guys, confidence-wise," St. Louis manager Mike Matheny said. "Gives us an opportunity to just take some momentum, and momentum is big right now when you talk about a five-game series."

The first eight Cardinals reached safely in the third to chase A.J. Burnett, saddling the right-hander with the second-shortest outing of his career and putting Game 1 out of reach early.

A sellout crowd roared and then settled in for an easy victory by the NL Central champions, making their third consecutive trip to the post-season.

"Game 164 was rough," Pirates manager Clint Hurdle said. "One of the things we've been good at is we don't overcook things."

Lance Lynn (15-10) faces Pittsburgh rookie Gerrit Cole (10-7) in Game 2 on Friday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All he does is win

Adam Wainwright remained unbeaten in the post-season, going to 3-0 with a 2.27 ERA in 14 games, five of them starts.

- Wainwright allowed a run on three hits in seven innings, striking out nine without a walk. The only damage came on a homer by Pedro Alvarez to start the fifth.
- The right-hander tied for the NL lead with 19 wins this year and was 4-0 in his last five starts.
- Wainwright also started the Cards' big burst with a leadoff, full-count walk.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Your heart will point you in the right direction today and if you are smart you won't ask questions, you will just go where it tells you to go

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You probably won't get a lot of free time today and over the weekend, so make sure others know you are going to be busy.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Nothing and no one can stand between you and your goal, but don't get carried away. More important than success is that you reach it appropriately, playing by the rules and helping others along the way.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Petty squabbles could easily get out of hand over the next two or three days, so make it a point of honor to control your temper.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Travel and socialize as much as possible today and over the weekend, because the new moon will introduce you to people and places that bring a smile to your face. Life is good and about to get even better.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

A new moon in the financial area of your chart means you will get what you deserve, nothing more and nothing less. It's not all about money, of course, but it's a pretty good way of measuring how successful you've been.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You will be feeling on top of the world today, and with every good reason. The approaching new moon in your sign means that happy days are here again.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

It would be foolish to try to bluff your way out of trouble when there really isn't that much at stake. If you have made a mistake then admit it – and maybe follow up with an aggressively Scorpio “so what?”

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You will find it difficult to play by the rules today, especially if other people egg you on to do something outrageous.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Important people expect you to deliver and you must not let them down. You may have to burn the candle at both ends in order to meet your obligations on time but you'll be glad you did, so get on with it.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

A new moon in your fellow Air sign of Libra means you can easily escape tasks you don't want to do and people you don't want to get involved with.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Keep your eyes and ears open and, above all, keep an open mind because an offer that comes your way out of the blue is not to be missed.

WEEKDAYS 5:30 AM

TIME IS RUNNING OUT

The coming of the Lord is very near, you cannot continue to procrastinate the decision to surrender your life to Jesus. His eagerness to receive you is buttressed by His word as He said, "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." (Rev 3:20). Accept Jesus today as your Lord and Personal Saviour.
